The Boy Who Cried "Wolf!"

Read the story below.

There was once a boy who lived in a village. His family owned many sheep. The boy had a job to watch the sheep. If a wolf came near, he needed to call for help. His sheep stayed on a hill near the village. One day, he thought of a trick he could play on the people who lived in the village. He ran and crying out for help. He shouted, "Wolf! Wolf! Come and help! The villagers heard him crying and thought that they had to help. So, the villagers ran to help him. They would try to help him and protect his lambs. However, when the villagers got there, the boy laughed at them. There was no wolf there. He thought it was funny. Then another day the boy tried the same trick. Once again, the villagers came to help him out, and the boy laughed at them. Then, one day, a wolf really did come and it started chasing the lambs. In great fright, the boy ran for help. "Wolf! Wolf!" he screamed. "There is a wolf! Help! Please! Help! Please!" All the villagers heard him, but they thought he was pulling another trick, and the shepherd-boy lost all his sheep. When the people found out they were sorry, but they told the boy it was his fault. That is the kind of thing that happens to people who lie. Even when they tell the truth, no one believes them.

Flamingos

One of the most attractive birds to look at is the flamingo. It is about four feet tall with a white body. Its neck is like that of the swan. Its wings are rosy pink but have a black edge. The legs are also rosy pink. The most unusual part of a flamingo's body is its beak. The beak is bright pink at the top and black at the bottom. It is bent in the middle.

The flamingo finds its food in a very interesting manner. It stands in shallow water and bends the head till the head is between the legs. It collects some mud in the middle part of the beak, which is bent. It eats small weeds, insects and worms, which might be there in the mud and throws out the rest of the mud.

The flamingo's nest is a cone of mud, about 15 to 30 cm high. The nest is hollow at the top. Here the mother bird lays one or two eggs. The eggs are white with a light blue tinge. Groups of such nests are called flamingo cities.
